"You have heard that it was said, 'You shall love your neighbor and hate your enemy.' But I say to you Love your enemies and pray for those who persecute you, so that you may be sons of your Father who is in heaven..."
(Matt 5:43-45)

A Good Hog Raiser

At a state fair, a disrespectful, cursing, cigarette-puffing boy led a champion hog into the show grounds to win first place. That animal was everything you could want in a hog. He had enjoyed good care.

The irony of it was that the hog and the boy belonged to the same man. That man was a national success as a hog raiser, but a miserable failure as a boy raiser. A man may succeed in making a living but fail in rearing his children to make a life.

Edgar A Guest had this to say:

I have a number of tasks to do, all of which I desire to do well. And to be a failure in any of them would be a bitter disappointment unto me, but I could bear a failure in any of them without whimpering if I were sure that I had not failed my son. Not so much of me in the bank and more of me in the boy is what I hope to have to show at the end of my career. For me to be a success as a father, he must be a success.

How pitiful it is today that some fathers are tied down with their businesses. When they have a few minutes off, they want to spend it away from the family. One father came in from the office early, as it was his habit on this particular day of the week, to play golf. He rapidly changed clothes. As he started out the door, his little boy looked up and said, "Daddy, are you coming or going?"

A boy received a great many gifts at Christmastime, but there was one scrap of paper that he treasured more than all gifts, because it was a note from his father. The note said, "To my son, I pledge to you that during the coming year I will reserve for you and you only one hour each day and two hours every Sunday."

Childishness
Allen Webster

“Verily I say unto you, Except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven” (Matthew 18:3).

Sure, children are difficult to handle at times and certainly try our patience, but when you think about it, there’s nothing so priceless as our little ones. They’re funny, fascinating, and fun-loving. They’re enthusiastic, eager, and energetic. You might be asking, “Does that mean I have to be amusing and hyperactive to please God?” Of course not, but there are some characteristics of children that we must have if we want to live with God in heaven.

Jesus’ disciples had a problem with wanting to be the greatest in the kingdom. It seems as if they had a difficult time understanding Jesus’ explanation that His kingdom was not like the one they expected. His was to be built on the foundation of meekness, servanthood, and humility, rather than on man’s power, pride, and might. In order to make His point He set a little child in the midst of the disciples on one occasion and told them they needed to be-come like this little child in order to enter the kingdom of heaven. No doubt they were wondering, “What does He mean? Does He want us to be childish?” He continued by saying, “Whosoever therefore shall humble himself as this little child, the same is greatest in the kingdom of heaven” (Matthew 18:4). Jesus’ point: If we want to please God, we must be child-like in humility. Children haven’t learned yet to think they are better than others. Their happiness and well-being don’t depend on others submitting to them and honoring them. They’re not proud and arrogant, but Christ-like in their humility. “For I say, through the grace given unto me, to every man that is among you, not to think of himself more highly than he ought to think; but to think soberly, according as God hath dealt to every man the measure of faith” (Romans 12:3). Let’s be childish . . . in humility.

Worship Service Schedule

The Covid guidelines have changed. But we will continue to have 2 services. The 9:00am service will continue as it has been. The 10:30am service will meet in the auditorium instead of the fellowship hall. The 10:30 service will also continue to be live streamed. For now the Sunday pm bible study and the Wednesday pm bible study will continue to be live stream only.

If you have any questions please call the office.

Because He is our Father, we can turn to Him when the storm is raging. His arms are the best place to be when we get scared in the dark. No one will do quite like Him when we're confused and bewildered. We're dependent upon Him like no one else in this world--there's no one quite like our Father. Let's be childish . . . in our dependency upon our Father.

“Let no man despise thy youth; but be thou an example of the believers, in word, in conversation, in charity, in spirit, in faith, in purity” (1 Timothy 4:12)
