

The Month in Review

Trinitario folks from San Lorenzo
Don Nati, his wife Christina,
Eduardo and Angela

Two Yura guys working on their scripts Ascencio and Innocencio

Many good meals Bolivian style.

We don't want to forget three precious ladies who make our food taste good and our stay at the mission home great!

Our recordings went well but this is no small project. We were blessed with good weather at least in Santa Cruz. The amount of rain that fell in the San Borja area was too much for our last team of two guys to come out. On the return trip for the first two fellows that came out from San Borja we had to fly them back by plane over all the flooded roads. January is a rainy month for sure and the Beni area is getting more than their share.

We were blessed by getting a huge start on this big project.

1. In Trinitario we were able to record four episodes. We are grateful for Don Nati, Christina, Eduardo and Angela for the fine job they are doing in reading, editing and reviewing the first four episodes.
2. In Yura we were so blessed to have Ascencio and Innocencio doing a great job as well with the first four episodes. It was a great start.
3. In Chimane we were able to get many parts recorded in the Genesis Project and also in another audio project we are working on.
4. Jack Russell is making great progress with his huge job translating many verses in Simba for the Genesis Project.
5. We were unable to have the last two Chimane guys in because of heavy rain in their area. We will pick up the lost time in May.

Thank you for all your support and prayer for this big project.

I will be traveling home now on Sunday. Appreciate your prayers as I travel.

Bruce and Jan, from the team of many. God Bless you all.
