Ministry Purpose:

To equip, inform and inspire to nobler services as we share the gospel of Jesus Christ and the gift of salvation.

Ministry Mission Statement:

Kingdom Women vigorously seek the Kingdom of God and His righteousness. This requires earnest endeavor and diligent faith, spiritual warfare that includes the will to resist satan and sin; and to hunger and thirst for the Word of God. Together, we will intercede through fasting and prayer for the lost, the family and the community. We serve God with whole hearts and willing hands, performing good deeds that please the Father. We will walk in love and protect the spirit of unity through the bond of peace among the sisters as we follow Christ Jesus.

Foundational Scripture:

Esther 4:14-17

Sister to Sister News

“May the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace in faith so that you overflow with hope by the power of the Holy Spirit.”

ROMANS 15:13

Fruit of the Spirit: Gentleness and Kindness

We often quote the scripture in Matthew where Jesus teaches you will know them by their fruit (Matthew 7:16-20.) Good trees bring forth good fruit. We love to say, “I’m not judging, I’m just a fruit inspector!” Jesus goes on to say that if we don’t do the things that we hear Him teach, then it is as though our house is built on sand, and we won’t stand when the storms of life come our way.

Now Paul, in his book to the Galatians, similarly uses fruit to identify the traits we should exhibit in our lives to show we are walking in the Spirit. He urges the Galatians not to be drawn away to any teaching that is not the gospel they accepted. He implores them to walk in the Spirit. What exactly does that mean to us today? Walking in the Spirit? Paul is direct in delineating things that represent walking in the flesh (Gal. 5:19-21) and those that reflect when we walk in the Spirit (Gal. 5:22-23.) Two of the character traits that demonstrate we are walking in the Spirit are Gentleness and Kindness.

More than any of the other traits, both gentleness and kindness are matters of the heart. If our hearts are prideful and self-centered, we will struggle to be gentle and kind. In many dictionaries and thesauruses, gentleness and kindness are synonymous. So why are they both listed? I believe it is because Paul is driving home the point that our hearts must be open to the moving of the Spirit.

Gentleness - “acting in a manner that is gentle and mild and even-tempered.” Kindness - “the quality of being warmhearted and considerate and humane and sympathetic.” Seeing these definitions, we will continually need to keep our flesh under subjection to the Spirit. Contrary to what we might think, it takes a very strong person to be gentle, particularly in an emotionally charged situation. And as a coworker once shared with me, “We should strive to be kind, not right.” These heart traits can only be achieved as we stay connected to the true vine, Jesus, and have the Holy Spirit abiding on the inside of us.

5 Uplifting Reasons to Receive God's Grace and Mercy

God's grace and mercy is available to us, but we often have a difficult time receiving it each day. No one is perfect and we all fall short daily. Mistakes happen, we try again and move forward. When we do fall short, God desires for us to grow, learn and draw closer to Him for guidance and direction.

But instead of clinging to God, we often are hard on ourselves for our shortcomings, and we can be our own harshest critics. We place unrealistic expectations on ourselves and others, trying to handle everything within our own strength. The good news is that God's grace is a free gift for all believers and covers us, strengthening us to move forward.

If you have been overly critical and struggling to receive God's amazing grace and mercy, here are five uplifting reasons to do so today:

1. God's Grace Is a Free Gift - You don't have to earn, work for, or buy God's grace. It is a free gift given to each believer. "He has saved us and called us to a holy life – not because of anything we have done but because of his own purpose and grace. This grace was given us in Christ Jesus before the beginning of time" (2 Timothy 1:9).

God's grace is given from God's love for us, and reassures us that we are not alone. God's grace empowers and encourages us to start each day fresh and put the past behind us. Despite the varying seasons and challenges that we will face, God's grace continues to cover, guide, and lead us each day.

That is great news! When we are discouraged or needing encouragement to move forward, we can receive God's grace to remain uplifted and be reminded that He is with us. Today, I invite you to give thanks and praise to God for His grace that is a free gift for you.

2. God's Grace Is Sufficient - Another uplifting reason to receive God's grace is because it is sufficient for you, and it never runs out. "But he said to me, 'My grace is sufficient for you, for my power is made perfect in weakness'" (2 Corinthians 12:9). There is nothing that we can do or have done that exempts us from God's grace. It carries us and sustains us when we are weak and feel overwhelmed.

Let God's grace cover you when you need new strength and direction for your spirit. Allow God's sufficient grace to fill in the gaps when your human strength is depleted or needing restoration. Receive God's grace as the best free gift you have ever received. You don't have to ever wonder if this will be available, because it is always more than enough. God's sufficient grace covers all of our inadequacies, shortcomings, flaws, and sin. Continue to walk in God's abundant and amazing grace today.

3. God's Mercy Allows Us to Move Forward - Despite our past shortcomings, God's mercy covers us and gives us strength to move forward. "Have mercy on me, O God, according to your unfailing love; according to your great compassion blot out my transgressions" (Psalm 51:1). When we feel like we want to quit, God's mercy empowers us to keep going with new energy, vigor, and purpose.

God's mercy propels us to start again tomorrow and don't look back. Each new day that God allows us to wake up is a new opportunity to try again and trust Him more. Our circumstances may not immediately change, but God's mercy allows us to shift our perspective and trust in His direction.

If we make a wrong turn or need to be re-directed, God's mercy invites us to do so with no condemnation. As you move forward each day, I invite you to allow God's mercy to guide and direct you forward as you trust in Him.

4. God’s Mercy Is Calming - In addition to God’s mercy moving us forward, God’s mercy is calming and available to you. Say it aloud: “I receive God’s mercy today.” This daily affirmation is essential for you to not only say, but fully believe.

I have learned that receiving mercy doesn’t mean there is no struggle. God’s mercy will cover and keep you even in the midst of life’s challenges. When I have felt anxious or overwhelmed from a situation or challenge before me, God’s mercy has uplifted me and shifted my perspective. My circumstance may not immediately change, but my outlook and response will.

“Who is a God like you, who pardons sin and forgives the transgression of the remnant of his inheritance? You do not stay angry forever but delight to show mercy” (Micah 7:18).

You can choose. Receive God’s mercy, or live with constant anxiety. God’s mercy will calm you when you are frantic. God’s mercy will direct you when you feel lost. I invite you to receive this today.

5. God’s Grace and Mercy Helps You to Forgive Yourself - God’s grace and mercy allows us to forgive ourselves and walk in God’s victory. However, it is not always easy. It is a daily decision to receive God’s grace and mercy as we engage in daily life with joys and challenges. Christ’s death has forgiven us of our sins, but we don’t always extend that same grace to ourselves and others.

What are some practical ways that we can forgive ourselves and receive God’s grace? Each day we can celebrate our blessings and things that are going well. Meditate on Scripture that reminds us that we are already forgiven from God. “If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just and will forgive us our sins and purify us from all unrighteousness” (1 John 1:9). Encourage yourself and write or say positive affirmations to help combat negative self-talk.

Don’t retreat away from Him, but draw closer to God. He desires to show you that He is your loving Father who can help you change.

Due to His great love for you, God teaches, shepherds, and directs you with loving kindness, patience, and grace. In order to move forward and trust that God is in control, it is important to forgive yourself first. Each new day provides a new opportunity for you to start again, having learned from the lessons of yesterday. This transformed way of thinking will help free you from the bondage of your past mistakes.

There are many reasons to continue to receive God’s grace and mercy each day. I invite you to move forward with assurance, boldness, and courage, giving yourself grace and receiving the free gift of God’s grace and mercy that is available to you.

“TRUSTING GOD WITH MY CHILD”

And Abraham took the wood of the burnt offering and laid it on Isaac his son. And he took in his hand the fire and the knife. So they went both of them together. Genesis 22:6

We can watch our children suffer from many causes. They may get sick just because we live in a fallen world. They may groan under the consequences of their own choices. But additionally, if they have heard the call of God on their lives, we will see their faith tested. Perhaps we’ve walked a similar road and we know how crushing this testing can be. There will be moments when we cry out, “Lord, it’s all I can do to trust You with my child. Please strengthen my faith!”

As I watch my child come to the end of their resources as Jesus did in the desert of His testing, I will do just about anything to end their torment. But the worst part of divine shaping is not the physical pain but spiritual anguish. To see childlike faith crack into pieces rocks a parent’s heart. I stay on my knees and ask God to preserve my child’s confidence in His love and promises.

If ever a book could be written from a single verse, Genesis 22:6 would be one of them. What is not recorded are the thoughts of this father’s heart. He appears he was calm, standing in faith for Isaac, but he was still a father. And though my faith is intact, I am still a mother.

The tears of our children’s darkest moments cannot define our perspective. The stunning, end result of their testing cannot be seen yet. We need to trust God and hold on. In the meantime, we must not afflict our children with platitudes. This will alienate them from us – the very ones they may be trusting to walk with them through the experience. What can we do? Share our tears, pray their stories out loud with our arms around them, and assure them that God loves them.

As a parent, we must ‘build the bridges of friendship strong enough to support the truth.’ We may squirm as we enter in to their doubts, questions, and tears, but we are to be fully engaged in their grueling faith-walk. Nothing binds families together like a spiritual pilgrimage.

Lord, there is a prize. My child, on the other side of any spiritual desert, will be dazzling. Amen

“The Forgiven Should Forgive”

Colossians 3:13 (NIV) “Bear with each other and forgive one another if any of you has a grievance against someone. Forgive as the Lord forgave you.”

We forgive because we have been forgiven. God expects us to show grace to others because he showed grace to us. He demonstrated his love by sending Christ to die for us, even though we were still in rebellion to him (Romans 5:8).

It’s easier sometimes to be selfish instead of gracious. You see the slow cashier at the grocery store as a five-minute interruption to your day rather than somebody who might be struggling to keep his job or just received horrible news a few minutes before.

You see someone in your family who’s struggling as a drain on you rather than seeing her hopelessness over a desperate situation. You see the person who cut you off on the freeway as a villain instead of someone in need of God’s love.

We’re all in need of God’s love. That’s why Jesus Christ came into this world. And to show people grace is to remember what God has done for us. The ultimate way God shows us grace is by forgiveness. And the ultimate way he asks us to show grace to others is also by forgiving them.

People often ask me, “How can I find the strength to forgive? I don’t have it in me.”

The truth is, I don’t have it in me, either! The only place I’ve ever found the strength to forgive is to remember how much Jesus has forgiven me. Through that reminder, he gives me the strength and grace to forgive others.

There’s a story about a woman named Clara Barton, who founded the American Red Cross. A friend reminded her of a particularly cruel thing somebody had done to her years before. The friend asked, “Don’t you remember?” Her famous reply was, “No, I distinctly remember forgetting it.”

What do you need to forget? Who do you need to forgive? If you don’t forgive, you won’t be able to enjoy God’s vision for the rest of your life, because you’ll be stuck in the past. But when you forgive, you’ll be able to move on with your life.

Forgiveness doesn’t mean the person who wronged you was right. And it doesn’t make what that person did okay. You can forgive, and they still can face the consequences of what happened.

When forgiving someone seems impossible, remember one thing: Jesus forgave you.

Food for Thought:

- How might resentment and bitterness keep you from fulfilling your purpose?
- What do you need to let go of so that, with God’s help, you can forgive and show grace to someone?
- What are some ways a person may be affected by your forgiveness?

4 Prayers for Courage to Do the Right Thing

The Bible instructs us to make every effort to do what is right in the eyes of God. But God's Word does not just give us instructions, it shows us by example how to do the right thing. Through real stories of everyday people like you and me, we can gain strength and courage to do what God commands us to do. Overall, the Bible is clear that we do not have to act alone in doing what is right (2 Timothy 1:7). God is with us, and His Spirit enables us to do what we cannot do on our own. Yet, it takes faith and trust, and we often have to battle against our own selfish desires, wanting to take the easy way out, or wanting to stay comfortable. These are temptations we can work to overcome.

Here are four lessons and prayers, through the examples of Moses, Joshua, Abigail, and the Good Samaritan, you can use when you need to have courage to do the right thing in your community or workplace, for your family or for the wider world.

1. Moses: Courage to Follow Your Calling - Often God calls us to do things for which we feel ill-equipped. We need courage when faced with tasks that seem beyond our abilities. When we follow through, we gain confidence in God. We also have the joy of seeing His power at work. When our knees are shaking or we are apprehensive at the prospect of serving God in the way He is asking us to, we can look at Moses, who felt the same way but is a fine example of a courageous character.

At the outset, Moses made excuses and questioned God's calling on his life (Exodus 3:11-4:13). His faith looked shaky and his courage non-existent. Moses seemed far from equipped and he assumed the Israelites would feel the same way about him. Yet, he followed through. And at the end of his life, we see a man with a strong faith and deep trust in God.

Moses stepped out and spoke up to Pharaoh, even though he felt unable to speak eloquently. He led the people faithfully, even though they were fickle. Moses had the humility and confidence to follow through on his calling and, even though he didn't get to enter the Promised Land, he had the joy of speaking with God face to face.

What is God calling you to do, for which you feel ill-equipped? Whatever is beyond your ability is within God's ability. Step out in faith and trust God to do what you cannot do. Use this prayer to help you.

Lord God, help me to remember that when you call me, you will equip me—that I should not look at the task in front of me but keep my eyes firmly fixed on you. Forgive me when I have made excuses or questioned You. Today, I will have courage to do the right thing. I will stay true to the task of trusting You. Lord God, I want to have the joy of seeing You at work. I want to marvel at seeing Your power at work through me, your humble servant. Thank you for giving me the privilege of serving you. In Jesus' name, Amen.

2. Joshua: Courage to Lead Well - All of us are leaders in some capacity. We don't have to be a president or prime minister to think that having the courage to lead well applies to us. As a father or a mother, you can be a leader in your home. As a woman or a man, you can be a leader in your workplace. You may be a leader in your church or community, too.

Many leaders in the Bible needed courage to lead in the face of physical danger. We may not face the same physical dangers today, especially in the western world, but we can still learn from such leaders, one of whom is Joshua. Joshua had the courage to lead the people into the Promised Land as God commanded, and take possession of it. How did Joshua have such great bravery in the face of an enormous task? Many things leading up to that time had given him the fearlessness to move forward. Joshua had previously led a battle and seen God give him success (Exodus 17:8-13). Moses had been an encourager and mentor to Joshua since his youth (Exodus 24:13). But, most importantly, Joshua trusted and had faith in God. Joshua had seen God give him victory in the past which gave him courage for future tasks. As a leader, Joshua followed God's leading and had courage to do the right thing in the face of danger.

Where has God given you success in the past that gives you courage to lead in the right way today? Are you focusing on faith and trust in God as you step out to lead others? Who can come alongside you to give you encouragement or even mentor you?

Lord, where I am a leader in my home, at work, my church or elsewhere, I ask you to help me lead well. Give me courage to lead in the right way and do the right things. Lord God, help me always to remember, that you go before me and you will be with me; you will never leave me nor forsake me. Help me to know I need never be afraid; I do not need to be discouraged even in the face of what seems dangerous or risky. In Jesus' name, Amen

3. Abigail: Courage to Act Quickly - Sometimes we need the courage to act quickly to do the right thing. Knowing when to act, rather than standing by and doing nothing, is important. Making sure we do the right thing when we act is also crucial. We don't want to be left thinking "I should have, or should not have, done that." On one hand, it's easy to act impulsively when our emotions are running high. But, this can lead to disastrous results, especially if we are angry or upset. On the other hand, we can hesitate to take action, which often leads to not acting at all. In the story of Abigail, we see that wisdom precedes the courage to act quickly in doing the right thing.

Abigail was a woman who acted quickly and wisely. She did the right thing in the heat of the moment and not only averted disaster coming on her household, but stopped David from taking revenge and doing the wrong thing (1 Samuel 25:18-34). Abigail faced David with humility and fearlessness. As a woman acting alone without her husband's knowledge (1 Samuel 25:19), she went against the social expectations of her time.

The Bible encourages us to ask God for wisdom. And God freely gives wisdom when we ask for it. Today or tomorrow you may face a situation where you need to have the courage to act quickly and do the right thing. Waste no time in asking God for His wisdom that is so much better than worldly wisdom.

Lord God, I want to not only have the courage to act quickly when I need to, but also to make sure my actions are right and pleasing in your eyes. I ask you to give me the wisdom to know when to act quickly to do the right thing. When I can avert disaster whether at home or across the world, show me how to act wisely. When I can stop others doing the wrong thing, whether in my family, church, workplace, or community, give me the courage to step up and speak. When I need to do the right thing that goes against the norms of today, give me common sense, and integrity. Lord, thank you for your wisdom that you give to those who ask. I ask you in advance to give me wisdom when needed. Fill me with humility and courage to do the right thing quickly. In Jesus' name. Amen

4. The Good Samaritan: Courage instead of Comfort - We can have many good intentions, but they mean nothing unless we follow through. It takes effort to act in the right way and often it is uncomfortable. Many of us have comfortable daily lives. We are surrounded by those with circumstances similar to our own. Moving outside our comfort zones is not only uncomfortable, it takes courage. The Bible calls for us to stand out for those suffering injustices (Isaiah 1:17). Through the parable of the Good Samaritan (Luke 10:25-37), we see it can be easy to ignore doing the right thing. Mercy and justice take time, money, and inconvenience. And, often it takes courage to step outside our comfort zones.

Jesus used the parable of the Good Samaritan in His example of doing the right thing for other people. The Good Samaritan tended to a traveler, presumably Jewish, coming from Jerusalem, who had been attacked by thieves. He tended his wounds and provided for him until he recovered. The challenge is to have the courage to go beyond our prejudices and do the right thing for those we do not like, or could even hate. Jesus is asking us to confront our intolerances and discriminations and do that which makes us feel uncomfortable. To do the right thing takes courage to step outside our comfort zones, even when those around us are not doing so. Where do you need courage to do the right thing for those who are not like yourself—to show kindness towards those whom you hold prejudices against? Where do you need to become uncomfortable and face any preconceived opinions? We need courage to do unto others as we want them to do to us.

Lord God, I admit it is often difficult to step outside my comfort zone. I get comfortable and I live in comfort. Forgive me for ignoring those who are not like me, but still need mercy and justice. Give me the courage to be like the Good Samaritan—to go out of my way to help others, to give of my time and money, but most of all to break down the barriers of prejudice. I ask you to show me the wrong opinions I have about other people. I ask you to show me one way today that I can be courageous enough to stand up for those unlike myself. In Jesus' name, Amen.

When we turn to God for courage to do what is right, we can be confident that He will come alongside us, He will be with us, and He will show us what is good.

Duchess Baked Potatoes

Ingredients

- 12 Medium Yukon Gold potatoes (3½–4 pounds)
- Kosher salt (to taste)
- 5 large egg yolks
- 2 garlic cloves, finely grated
- 1¼ cups heavy cream
- ¾ cup sour cream
- 10 tablespoons unsalted butter, melted
- 1 teaspoon pink or black peppercorns, finely ground

Preparation

Step 1 - Place potatoes in a large pot and pour in water to cover by 2"; season with salt. Bring to a boil over medium-high. Reduce heat and simmer until a paring knife very easily slides through potatoes, 25–35 minutes. Drain and let cool slightly.

Step 2 - Preheat oven to 425°. Whisk egg yolks, garlic, cream, sour cream, butter, and peppercorns in a large bowl; season generously with salt. Peel potatoes and pass flesh through a ricer or a food mill (or mash them by hand if you don't mind a few lumps) directly into bowl with egg mixture. Fold in gently (be careful not to overmix). Transfer to a 3-quart baking dish and decoratively shingle or swirl surface. Bake, rotating once, until golden brown and slightly puffed, 30–40 minutes.

Step 3 - Dish can be prepared 1 day in advance - Cover and chill. Increase bake time by 5–10 minutes.
