God used a persecuted woman's faithful witness to draw her husband to Himself

Once Noor heard the gospel from a believing friend who bravely shared it with her, it didn't take long for her to become a passionate follower of Jesus. That alone is a miracle worth celebrating. It's common for new believers in northern Africa and the Middle East to experience persecution from their family. However, Noor's husband, Ahmed, completely supported her even though he didn't believe. His support was a blessing, but Noor wanted her husband to experience new life in Jesus too. So, she and her believing friends began praying for Ahmed. Not long after Noor's decision, she experienced persecution from her family. They restricted her from seeing others, even her husband. When weeks turned into months, Ahmed lost hope. He and Noor's believing friends feared that she was dead. Then one day her friends heard a familiar voice behind them. It was Noor!

She told them all about how her family had beaten her and berated her for following Jesus, but through it all, Noor faithfully loved them and shared the gospel with them. It was a challenging time, but they eventually let Noor go. When she returned home, Noor said that Ahmed asked her to read the Bible to him. He studied the Word with Noor and the other believers for a couple of weeks and became a believer! It was clear that God used Noor's persecution to draw Ahmed to Him.

Praise God for sustaining Noor during persecution and for drawing Ahmed to Himself. Pray that Ahmed will fully surrender to Jesus and trust in Him. Pray for other believers in this area of the world who suffer persecution from those they love.

1 NORTHERN AFRICAN AND MIDDLE EASTERN PEOPLES.

2 AMERICAN PEOPLES.

Leo and LouAnne are a believing couple in northeastern Brazil's indigenous KDD tribe who lost their jobs after refusing to recant their faith in Jesus Christ. Ask God to provide for them and their family during this time when the couple is out of work.

4 HAKKA PEOPLE OF EAST ASIA.

5 NORTHERN AFRICAN AND MIDDLE EASTERN PEOPLES. An identity card is crucial for school, work, and travel. Believing families fled conflict and can't provide for themselves without new cards, which have been denied. Pray that the authorities will give the needed permissions. Pray for emotional healing for each family.

6 EUROPEAN UNENGAGED PEOPLES.

Sharing the gospel among the Poles in Brazil is difficult. Many Polish people who leave the Catholic Church are ostracized by their community, so they remain unreached at 0.5% evangelical. Ask God to tear down the barriers keeping them from knowing Jesus as their Savior.

7 INDIA. Persecution of believers is increasing across India, particularly in southern India. Believers are unjustly imprisoned, beaten, and threatened. Church gatherings are prevented. Pray that believers will remain faithful and that their response will be a strong witness.

8 AFGHANISTAN. Pray for unbelievers who were able to leave. Pray God would orchestrate divine appointments for them to hear the Good News. Pray that by leaving the oppressive atmosphere of Afghanistan, people will have the freedom to make Jesus Lord of their lives.

14 NORTHERN AFRICAN AND MIDDLE EASTERN PEOPLES.

Believers (less than 0.1% of the population) are ridiculed for trusting God’s Word over a priest’s word. Pray for the lost to be drawn to God’s Word and come to know Jesus.

20 AFGHANISTAN. Pray for the brothers and sisters who were able to leave Afghanistan. Pray that wherever they find themselves, they would be salt and light to those around them. Pray God will use them to further his kingdom to Afghans all over the earth.

South Asian believers resonate with Daniel's story of persecution in the lion's den

A print in a believer's home of "Daniel's Answer to the King" by Briton Riviere (1840-1920).

Some South Asian believers decorate their homes with an art print based on Daniel in the lion's den. Daniel's gaze is fixed heavenward while the lions lay behind him. This image resonates with them because following Jesus is costly, yet many choose to leave behind man-made idols and rituals and run to the one true God. As followers of Jesus in South Asia are disowned, the gospel spreads to homes with open doors. When they are run out of their towns, the gospel goes with them to new areas. As they are imprisoned, the gospel spreads to those prisons. And if followers of Jesus are killed, the gospel spreads as others hear the story of the hope those martyrs had in Christ. May He alone receive the praise of South Asia's 1.8 billion worshippers. May the South Asian church not grow weary as they proclaim the name of Christ with their words, their deeds, and their very lives. May their faithful witness echo throughout all eternity.

Faith in Jesus cost them their jobs, but believers' persecution emboldened the local church

Leo and LouAnne are new believers in northeastern Brazil's indigenous KDD tribe. Recently, 60 leaders told them to either abandon their faith in Jesus or lose their jobs as schoolteachers in the community. The leaders accused the couple of being traitors to their tribal culture. "It's not easy to follow Jesus, but I don't want to quit now," Leo answered. Leo and LouAnne lost their jobs that day. "We feel sad to be hated for our faith and to have lost our jobs, but we also feel happy on the inside, knowing that we are standing firm in our faith in Jesus!" LouAnne said. This persecution has strengthened the faith of the believers in the KDD tribe, who still meet and study the Word together weekly. "They can't take the seed of the gospel away from us," a believer said. "Let's ask God to make us strong and make this seed grow!"

Light shines in the darkness as the remaining believers in Afghanistan persevere in faith

Last summer, the world watched in horror as Afghanistan fell into the hands of the Taliban and a mass of people fled their homeland. Among this group, many Afghan believers escaped what they feared would be certain death because of their faith in Christ. Please pray for the believers who remain in Afghanistan. Most have not experienced the physical persecution and death that was expected with the Taliban takeover—but life is still grim. Many feel alone and abandoned. They dread what the future holds as the Taliban tighten rules and economic hardships rise. Pray God will strengthen them to shine in great spiritual darkness. Pray that God will build up his church among both the diaspora of Afghans scattered around the world and the remnant of believers persevering in Afghanistan.
