

We would appreciate your prayers for our family. Our son, Jamie, fell off of his roof on to his hands and face. He broke the bones in his face. His wrists are shattered and pushed into his radius and ulna (arm bones). They are doing surgery on his face first to fix his orbital socket. I am sure he is facing many surgeries on his hands and wrists. I am not sure how this affects his job. He does have medical insurance through work.

Our daughter, Cori, is in Iowa right now. She plans to head down to Missouri Tuesday night (Monday morning her time). From there she plans to go to be with Jamie in Texas. She is on summer break right now from classes at the missionary training center where she teaches. I am sure there will be plans that have to be made. It might be better for Jamie to go to Missouri once he has had his surgeries.

Bella and I are pretty distressed. It is hard to be so far away. And it is just hard to have our son hurt.

Thank you for our prayers.

Paul
