Jesus Is Calling Today

Hope is an anchor for your soul— firm and secure. A ship in turbulent waters needs to drop anchor in a safe place. In stormy weather, a large ship may be able to enter the safety of a harbor because of the wild waves buffeting the boat. So a smaller boat may be used to carry the ship's anchor through the breakers into the harbor. When the anchor is dropped there, the ship is secured – even though it is still in rough waters.

This is a picture of how hope keeps your soul—the eternal part of you—safe and secure in the midst of life's storms. To be effective, your hope must be solidly in Me, the Savior-God who died to pay the penalty for your sins. After I was crucified, My miraculous resurrection empowered Me to be your living Hope. In fact, I am more abundantly alive than you can begin to imagine. When your hope is connected to me, you share in My vibrant, eternal life. Someday you will have a glorified body like Mine! Meanwhile, be assured that your hope-anchor keeps you secure even in life's fiercest storms.

Hebrews 6:19-20 1 Peter 1:3 Hebrews 10:23

Jesus Is Calling Today

I came into your life to make you free. The closer you live to Me, the freer you can be. By spending time alone with me, your awareness of My abiding Presence grows deeper and stronger. There is healing in My wings—in the intimacy of nearness to Me. My healing Presence binds up wounds from your past so that they stop bleeding. The salve of my Spirit enhances the healing process. In My holy Light you can see things from a new perspective—freeing you from old, unhelpful ways of thinking. As you lay down baggage from your past, you grow increasingly free.

I make you free through the truth—about who I am and what I have done for you. I also help you face the truth about yourself and the people in your life. If you're involved in hurtful relationships, I will help you change them or break free. If you are trapped in addictions, I will help you take the first step toward freedom—honest confession of the truth. In every situation, the truth will set you free.

The abandoning of the old road must be accompanied by the rectifying of the old wrong. So far as restitution is possible, it is part of our forsaking the old life. Here, then, is where repentance begins.”

If there are people we have harmed in the past, we have a responsibility to do whatever we can to make things right. While this is not always possible, we should not be content until we can truly say that we have made that effort. God freely and completely forgives all of our sins through the blood of Jesus, but He leaves us the duty of living out our faith, not just toward Him, but in our dealings with others.

True faith in Christ will produce action and change in our lives.

And Zacchaeus stood, and said unto the Lord; Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor; and if I have taken any thing from any man by false accusation, I restore him fourfold. And Jesus said unto him, This day is salvation come to this house, forasmuch as he also is a son of Abraham. For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost.
Luke 19:8-10

Salvation is God's free gift to us. And once we receive Christ, God works an inside-out change in us that proves to others the reality of our faith in Christ. The commitment Zacchaeus made to make things right and help those in need was cited by Jesus as evidence that his faith was genuine. There is no real faith that does not produce a result in our lives. James wrote, "For as the body without the spirit is dead, so faith without works is dead also" (James 2:26).

James Henry Jowett said, "There is something more in this abandonment than the desertion of an old road. We cannot turn from that road as though nothing had been accomplished in it. A certain life has been lived and certain damage has been done. No man can leave that road where ruin has been wrought and turn away as though nothing has been done.
