J Morgan Gravley - "The Giving Jar"

I am simultaneously thankful and resentful for the ease of online giving. Don't get me wrong, I pay all of my bills online and I give online, and I think it is an excellent tool that has helped empower the church to give easier and more frequently. However, there is something soul shaping in seeing someone physically put their hard earned money in an offering plate. These lessons taught through action, seeing our brothers and sisters in faithful obedience, are often lost in our digital age.

By extension, our children may miss the opportunity to learn from examples of the faithful when it comes to giving. Parents need to do everything they can to intentionally teach the discipline of giving, and we want to support that!

In that spirit, we are excited to announce a small new addition to our Sunday Services.

When it comes time for our offering, our young ones will be encouraged to bring any change or loose cash to put into their own "Giving Jar" up front. These funds will be collected and used to support a child in Honduras through Living Hope. We hope that this new addition will become a cherished part of your children and grandchildren's weekly worship experience.

Now spend some time scooping out the loose change from the couch and turn it into a discipleship moment for the young ones in your life!
